Reconditioning Process

- QCertified vehicles must meet or exceed comprehensive inspection/reconditioning standards in order to be called a QCertified vehicle.
- QCertified vehicles receive a comprehensive vehicle inspection that scrutinizes all major vehicle systems, including engine, transmission, drivetrain, brakes, steering, suspension, heating and cooling systems, tires, and exhaust system. QCertified vehicle owners will receive a completed Pre-Owned Vehicle Inspection Report.
- QCertified dealerships have Used Vehicle Technicians, who have completed QCertified training on exacting standards, perform a comprehensive inspection/reconditioning process.
- Quality Control Evaluation
- QCertified dealerships are randomly evaluated by an independent third party to ensure compliance with the strict QCertified standards.

Peace of Mind

- QCertified vehicles go through a comprehensive vehicle history evaluation to assure that your QCertified vehicle does not contain incidents reported to the Department of Motor Vehicles such as salvage, fire, flood damage, odometer problems or lemon history.
- QCertified vehicles receive a "clean" vehicle title report.

QCertified Limited Warranty
